

Christian Family in New Orleans Seeking Live-In Nanny

If you love children, are interested in living in New Orleans, and want to be part of a very special family, please consider this position.

Jenny Kate and Paul McMullan have six young children: Mollie (5), Katherine (2½), Pallie (1), Lucy (1), Charlotte (1), and Duncan (1) — yes, quadruplets! They are looking for a female, college student or recent college graduate who would be interested in moving into their home in New Orleans and helping to care for their children.

The McMullans are members of Redeemer Presbyterian Church (PCA). Paul is a cardiologist at The Ochsner Clinic, and Jenny Kate stays at home with their children. They are committed, loving parents who need an extra pair of helping hands — the right person to be a part of their family as an additional caregiver to the kids.

Job hours will vary, depending on Paul's schedule. Jenny Kate or another family member or nanny will be available at all times.

The McMullans are an active, vibrant family. They love to cook, entertain, and be outside. The ideal applicant will be an intelligent, energetic woman who loves the Lord and is willing to invest in Mollie, Katherine, Pallie, Lucy, Charlotte, and Duncan. Paul and Jenny Kate are committed to providing a happy, stable environment for their children and will wholly and generously embrace the young woman who helps make this possible.

Compensation will include:

- * Room and board.
- * A competitive weekly stipend.
- * Two weeks of paid vacation a year.

The position will be open in mid-Summer 2010, when their current nanny (Hannah Sandau, Moody '08) leaves New Orleans to be married.
