Mission Statement

New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary and Leavell College prepare servants to walk with Christ, proclaim His truth, and fulfill His mission.

Course Description

A seminar examining classic and modern arguments against the miraculous with special attention to the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Student Learning Outcomes

All students will understand the issue involved in coming to a position on the reality of miracles past and present, with particular attention given to evidence and objections to the resurrection of Jesus.

Students will identify key a priori features of the recent and ongoing analytic philosophical debate on the nature and provenance of miracles, evidencing the development of critical thinking techniques

Students will evaluate a posteriori alternative attempts to explain the resurrection in naturalistic terms, further indicating critical thinking skills.

Students will define and defend in historical terms the major aspects of the “Minimal Facts” argument for Jesus’ resurrection.

Integrate key aspects of the resurrection of Jesus with major theological doctrines and/or areas of practice, hence further developing a Christian world view.

Required Texts

All students must read all the assigned reading in the following books in preparation for the seminar.

Geivett, R. Douglas & Gary R. Habermas, Editors. In Defense of Miracles: A Comprehensive Case for God’s Actions in History. Downers Grove: InterVarsity, 1997.

- Habermas, Gary R. The Risen Jesus and Future Hope. Lanham, MD: Rowman & Littlefield, 2003.
- Keener, Craig S. Miracles: The Credibility of the New Testament Accounts, Volume 1. Grand Rapids: Baker Academic, 2011.
- Larmer, Robert A. Dialogues on Miracle. Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2015.
- Licona, Michael R. The Resurrection of Jesus: A New Historiographical Approach. Downers Grove: InterVarsity, 2010. (Read at least sections 1, 3, 4 [pages 277-464], 5.8, & “Summary and Further Conclusions.”)
- Swinburne, Richard. The Resurrection of God Incarnate. Oxford: Oxford University Press [Clarendon], 2003.
- Wright, N.T. The Resurrection of the Son of God. Minneapolis: Fortress, 2003. (Read at least Part I.1; Part II.5, II.7-8; Part III.9; III:12; Part V:18-19.)
- *Class notes: Gary Habermas, Philosophy of History, Miracles, and the Resurrection of Jesus, Third ed. (Virginia Beach, VA: Academx, 2012).

Recommended Texts

Students are strongly encouraged but not required to read the following texts.

- Brown, Colin. Miracles and the Critical Mind. Grand Rapids, MI: Eerdmans, 1994.
- Davis, Stephen T. Risen Indeed: Making Sense of the Resurrection. Grand Rapids, MI: Eerdmans, 1993.
- Davis, Stephen T., Daniel Kendall, and Gerald O’Collins, Editors, The Resurrection: An Interdisciplinary Symposium on the Resurrection of Jesus. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1997.
- Keener, Craig S. Miracles: The Credibility of the New Testament Accounts, Volume 2. Grand Rapids: Baker Academic, 2011.
- Schaaffs, Werner. Theology, Physics, and Miracles. Translated by Richard L. Renfield. Washington, D.C.: Canon, 1974.
- Swinburne, Richard. Miracles. N.Y.: Macmillan, 1989.
- . The Concept of Miracle. London: Macmillan and St. Martin’s Press, 1970.
- Wenham, David and Craig Blomberg, Editors, Gospel Perspectives: The Miracles of Jesus, Vol. 6. Eugene, OR: Wipf & Stock, 2003.

Assignments

1. Pre-Class Reading and Preparation Assignments.

It is crucially important that the student be prepared thoroughly to begin the initial class by having assimilated some of the basic content of the class notes (Habermas, Philosophy of History, Miracles, and the Resurrection of Jesus). In particular, concentrate on Section One, Part III and Section Four, Parts II and III of these notes. Be prepared for rigorous class discussions as well as being called on without warning to respond to the various issues.

- Parts 1 & 2 of the edited volume by Geivett and Habermas,
- Required reading from Licona
- Chapters 1-3 of Habermas, The Risen Jesus and Future Hope.
- Class notes (Habermas, Philosophy of History, Miracles, and the Resurrection of Jesus)

2. Class Participation.

Class participation is absolutely essential in this course and will contribute to the "Class Participation" portion of the grade. Emphasis is placed on the quality of oral responses and the preparedness of the student, not the number of responses.

3. Research Paper.

A research paper is designed to indicate the student's competence in a relevant, affirmative area of resurrection scholarship. Develop a creative, positive argument for a significant theme drawn from a "Minimal Facts" perspective for Jesus' resurrection. Examples might include historical interactions between the earliest Christian leaders specifically on the subject of the gospel data, on identifying or ascertaining the date of the early creedal passages, especially 1 Corinthians 15:3ff., or the same regarding the early Acts sermon summaries, evidences for the empty tomb, or defending one of the specific Gospel resurrection accounts.

Be creative, rigorous, and strive to break some new ground. Do not include lengthy summaries of the arguments of others, but spend the majority of your essay composing a strong case for your chosen area of research. Summarize and document the essentials of the case, then spend the remainder of the paper interacting with the material. The essay should follow the prescriptions of the latest edition of Turabian, as per Seminary specifications, be double-spaced, with proper margins, including endnotes or footnotes (footnotes preferred). Be sure your essay is scholarly, signifying original thinking. Be sure to maintain consistency throughout in the proper citing of your references, in order to document your research and develop cognate ideas. When you have not used the actual source being cited, always include the work in which the reference was mentioned, but keep these secondary references to a minimum. Avoid summarizing any class notes or class discussions. Avoid the use of any but the most indispensable Internet sources, and only when they were written by recognized authorities. Grading will be based chiefly on the quality of your research, your response to the chosen topic, and the originality and creativity of your insights. Endeavor to write all your papers such that they are publishable. Strict maximum length for this essay, counting all materials: 15 pages (double-spaced).

4. Argument Summaries.

Write the following four, one page each (maximum), argument summaries on these topics:

1. A half-dozen responses to the critique that the Pre-Pauline NT Creeds are non-evidential and hardly more than hearsay;
2. An additional list of critiques (beyond class discussions) specifically of collective hallucinations;
3. An additional list of critiques of general “copycat” legend hypotheses that are based on ancient pre-Christian mythology;
4. Provide a series of page numbers only for at least the following subjects from Keener’s first “Miracles” volume:
 - a. Keener’s chief themes;
 - b. historicity of Jesus’ miracles;
 - c. David Hume and similar claims are mistaken;
 - d. answers to the problem of analogy;
 - e. naturalism is not the predominant worldview/a shift is occurring at present;
 - f. uniqueness of Jesus’ resurrection;
 - g. extraordinary (“the best”) recent healing cases;
 - h. enough evidence to move from clear miraculous testimony to actual supernatural intervention;
 - i. miracles as authenticating signs;
 - j. public and/or professional polls regarding current beliefs in miracles;
 - k. any personal hesitations and/or cautions regarding Keener’s comments.

Throughout the four summaries, be creative whenever possible and do not repeat or summarize class notes or discussions. Always list your source’s author, title, and page numbers but only whenever citing a specific source.

5. Reflective Essay.

Write a reflective essay that demonstrates your ability to integrate the truth of Jesus’ resurrection with one of the following areas of Christian belief or practice: formulating a Christian world view, God’s existence, the essentials of the gospel data, eternal life/heaven, the foundation of Scripture, Christian ethics, the religious disciplines, religious tolerance, the compassionate use of wealth/finances, evangelism, counseling, personal philosophy of ministry or life, or any of life’s major struggles (our fears, lack of motivation, grief, outlook on the world), etc. Assume the best apologetic for the resurrection for this essay, and emphasize how the truth of this event is capable of informing our most treasured areas of belief, contemplation, and application, especially in terms of practical insights. Grading is based more rigorously on the creativity of your applications. Strict maximum length for paper #3: 7 pages (double-spaced).

6. Reading Record.

A statement of the final amount of reading completed specifically for this class, including the additional assigned reading, is required, and is also a part of the “Class Participation” grade. All the required reading listed under part IV, A above must be completed and included, as part of the total of 3,000 pages drawn from your relevant class research or outside reading of the student's choice. Identify the authors and texts from which the 3,000 total pages were read and be sure to include a total count of pages read.

Course Grading and Policies

The final grade will be calculated as follows:

Research Paper	35%
Total Argument Summaries	35%
Reflective Essay	20%
Quality of class comments & reading	10%
TOTAL	100%

Grading Scale will be the NOBTS grading scale.
